E'DITOR'S NOTE

As the fine and heartfelt tributes to John Hallowell and Allan Bloom in the following pages make clear, the academic world has lost two of its most exceptional scholars and teachers.

I owe a very special debt to John Hallowell, one of the original members of our Board of Editors. From the start he was always willing to lend a helping hand. His efforts have made this a far better journal than it would otherwise be.

I want to take this opportunity to welcome Abigail Thernstrom of Boston University to our Board of Editors.
